WOMEN SURGEONS PLAYING IMPORTANT PART IN WAR

NOW 3,000 FEMALE PRACTITIONERS IN THE EMPIRE;
THOUSANDS OF NURSES ENROLLED FOR MILITARY SERVICE; CONFLICT MEANS MUCH FOR CAUSE

By an International News Service Correspondent.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 12.—As in several previous wars of Russia, women surgeons are playing a large part. While Great Britain has refused proffered help of English women doctors, Russia is gladly accepting such assistance, although it is provided that the number of women surgeons must not exceed 50 per cent of men practitioners.

For countries, in fact, look upon the medical women with friendly eyes. But in Russia it was due to a Russian minister of war that the "weaker sex" was first admitted into the medical profession. While women were still barred from the civil institutions of medicine and military schools and hospitals were opened to them. There are now 3,000 practitioners in the empire.

Women doctors are especially needed in Russia because the religion of the Mussulman population in the eastern provinces forbids them to employ the services of a man. The question was first raised in 1881 by a Russian woman, who asked to be admitted to the medical course. At one of the provincial universities. The minister of education refused her request. The goal was finally reached through the minister of war, General Milutin, who had control of the Military Academy of Medicine at Petrograd. A timely gift of 50,000 roubles enabled him to suggest to the emperor that the medical courses of the military academy might be utilized for the instruction of women without an extra charge upon the state treasury.

Experiment started in 1878. His plan was approved for a period of four years; the experiment was started with 30 students in 1878, and in 1881 they had increased to 250. At the end of that time the courses were transferred to the Nicholas Military hospital, and a fifth year was added to the period of instruction, which thus became equivalent, though not identical, with the courses of the men students. Russian women doctors owed a debt of gratitude to the military authorities, which they were not slow to repay.

The war with Turkey broke out just before the students had completed their fifth year, about 30 of them at once offered to go to the front, and their services were immediately accepted as assistants. When we consider that a woman doctor, as yet an "unknown quantity" in Russia and that popular prejudice has still to be overcome, the broad-minded action cannot be too highly praised. They proved themselves worthy of the confidence placed in them, and their courage, devotion, and capacity for enduring hardship were generally acknowledged and broke down opposition. The winter following the war 60 students attending the courses at the military academy passed their final examinations and received the degree of woman doctor. They were now launched on their career, but there were many rocks ahead.

Successor Unfriendly. In 1901 General Milutin was succeeded as war minister by General Tannowski, whose delicate sympathies were outraged by the action of his predecessor. He decided that special courses for women could not take place under the friendly auspices of the war office, as hitherto, and no fresh women were admitted to the military hospital. A scheme for an independent women's institute of medicine was drawn up which was approved by the imperial council, and which it was decided to establish at Petrograd as soon as the necessary funds could be obtained.

It was again largely due to the generosity of a general in the army, who came forward with substantial help, that the building of the institute was commenced. Lectures began two years later, and in 1900 300 women were attending the courses.

It is not only as doctors that Russian women have been given a definite position in war time. The army nursing service is one of the best organized in Europe and they need few comparisons with that of any other country. The training lasts three years and includes practical work in all branches. The students live together in groups of about 200 where they lead a community life and are under the supervision of local committees who in their turn owe allegiance to eight boards of district administration.

Local Government. The hospitals in which they learn their work are equipped and maintained by local municipalities. On declaration of war the nurses immediately receive orders to be ready to join at a moment's notice, and about 25 are attached to each field hospital. They receive no special treatment on account of their sex. The military authorities look upon them as a definite branch of the service, and they are more exposed to danger in the war zone, as part of their life in the field, than the nursing corps of other armies. Deeds of splendid heroism done by these women are being reported from the eastern war zone today. One nurse carried off a wounded soldier herself from the firing line. Strongly staffed hospitals, admirably equipped with Roentgen-ray apparatus, operating rooms, and a plentiful supply of drugs and dressings follow behind the advancing armies. The doctors and nurses carry out their duties with a spirit of self-sacrifice that is akin to missionary devotion.

Russian women are hoping that, at the end of the war, the excellence of their work will insure their recognition in the medical profession, so their devotion to duty in the present war will cause all restrictions to be removed, and they will share in education and privileges on equal terms with their male colleagues.

GERMAN TRENCHES LITTLE RESEMBLE FIELD OF CARNAGE

Men Happy and Comfortable;
Quit Singing to Keep From Drawing Fire

HEADQUARTERS OF GERMAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Dec. 12.—(Forwarded by automobile courier to Berlin, thence to London.)—A correspondent of the Associated Press, spending a week in the field of operations, has been the guest of General von Heering, formerly war minister and now commanding the Seventh army; von Zuehl, the capturer of Maubeuge; and von Emmich, the conqueror of Liège and Namur.

Several hours were spent in the trenches in a picturesque old town where German riflemen and French legionnaires plan and play grim practical jokes of war upon each other from positions a scant 200 yards apart. A race of German troglodytes was found in one place on this front. Men, horses, supplies, hospitals and so forth were housed in hillside caverns, formerly stone quarries, which were abominably protected by a 50-foot stone roof from even the most powerful shellfire.

Observe Artillery Action. The morning was passed in an artillery observation stand opposite Rheims, where a powerful stereoscopic telescope, through which the fire of the artillery is directed, brought the observer within a hundred yards of the city and the cathedral and enabled him to see that the cathedral and its towers were standing fairly intact, although blanketed by fire.

A trip of inspection was made through a labyrinth of field fortifications and approaches along the Aisne at its nearest point to Paris, where the lines are normally two or three hundred yards apart. The soldiers, even in the foremost trenches, were found living in comparative comfort in their underground shelters. They are well supplied with blankets, food, water and clothing and are in good spirits despite their long residence in the trenches. Desultory infantry fire is always in progress here and the rattle of machine guns breaks out now and then. The artillery on both sides has thrown tons of iron daily, but there have been no great fights of late in this section of the front.

Unthreshed Fields of Grain. Of all the impressions of the trip, one of the most striking is that left by the countless stacks of unthreshed grain, stretching for miles in every direction throughout this slither of northern France. Over a hundred German threshing machines of the largest size are working in the region occupied by the army and six new ones were encountered today plugging forward to reinforce these harvest batteries which are doing work quite as important as that of the 42-centimeter cannon. The army is not only living on the supplies of flour and meat derived from this section of the country, but is actually sending wheat and flour back to Germany.

The German soldier at the front is smiling and well fed, as he has more warm meals daily than in peace time. The leafy greenhouses seen after the dash on Paris are again rounding out into poddies at the front, doing not sing as much as formerly, partly perhaps because he has sung himself out and partly because singing in the immediate vicinity of the enemy is apt to draw fire, but he is neither discouraged nor exhausted. There is no indication whatever that his nerves are breaking under the strain of the protracted war.

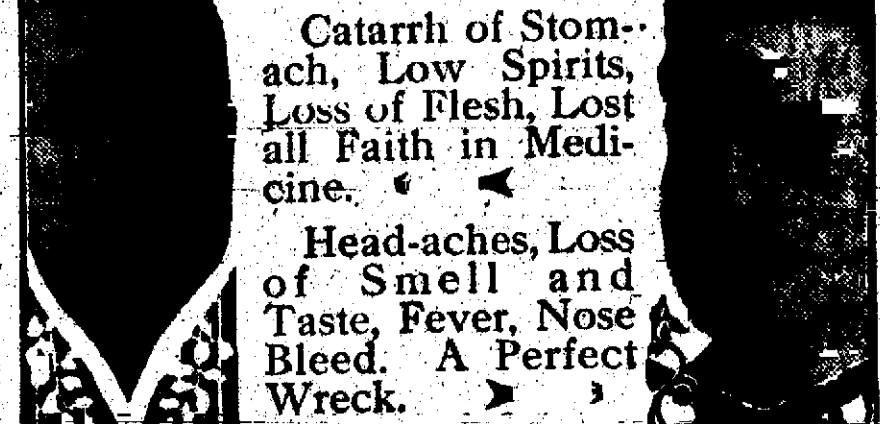

Visit to Field Hospital. No trip to the front would be complete without a visit to the field hospital. Health conditions are remarkably good; the surgeons state even better than in peace times. There has been considerable typhoid but this now is well in hand owing to the vigorous use of the antityphoid serum. The medical department is just now clearing out three villages in the immediate vicinity of headquarters, which were found to be typhoid centers. The surgeons are devoting special attention to this matter and are isolating or vaccinating the inhabitants of suspected villages.

The Germans evidently are preparing for an extended occupation. The trench peasants, under the supervision and to a certain extent the help and compulsion of the Germans, have planted winter crops and are working in the fields. Important bridges destroyed during the occupation operations are everywhere being permanently rebuilt with steel from Germany. The roads are being maintained as usual by French labor and in some cases factories are being reopened.

SAVED BY PERUNA Two Strong Men Who Were Down and Out.

Catarrh of Stomach, Low Spirits, Loss of Flesh, Lost all Faith in Medicine.

Head-aches, Loss of Smell and Taste, Fever, Nose Bleed. A Perfect Wreck.

Mr. George W. Close, No. 124 Nevada Bldg., Denver, Colo., writes: "I have all the faith in the world in your medicine, as it cured me of catarrh of the stomach. I was in a most distressing condition and life looked dark indeed. I could not eat. My food did not do me any good. I gradually lost flesh and was thin and emaciated. I was glad indeed to find that the first bottle of Peruna was doing me good, and so I kept on using it with a gradual increase of appetite and strength. Three months after I first began using it I was a well man, and all the credit is due to Peruna. I recommend it to all who are in need of a medicine for catarrh. If you have any reason to doubt the statements of either one of these gentlemen, whose faces accompany this article, just drop them a line enclosing a stamp and see if you do not get a prompt reply verifying and reiterating the words that we have quoted from them. Remarkable statements they are, too. There are five million people in the United States more or less affected with catarrh, who ought to read these words and act upon them. Mr. Edward M. Buritt, 3227 Lauder Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I have used your medicine for several years, and it has given entire satisfaction, not only in my own family, but also that of others of my friends, and would cheerfully recommend the use of Peruna, as I certainly do endorse your medicine."

TELEPHONES INCREASE PROSPERITY OF CITY, SAYS HEAD OF FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

Supt. Daily Gives Report of Office for Year:
4,175 Men, 1,405 Women Secured Work

St. Paso county's agricultural resources are developing rapidly, and are becoming a more important factor every day in the prosperity of Colorado Springs, especially from the standpoint of labor conditions, according to W. C. Daily, superintendent of the Colorado Free Employment bureau, who has completed his annual report. During the fiscal year ending November 30, he had calls for 1,057 men for farm work and was able to get only 823 for the places. There were 278 more calls for farm labor during this year than in 1913, and 184 more men given positions.

The telephone is responsible for a large percentage of this increase, according to Daily. Every week more farmers are installing lines and are getting in touch with their markets in Colorado Springs and with the labor bureau. A telephone call to the employment office will result in securing help in a few minutes, when the help is to be had. The automobile truck to eastern Colorado farm sections aided in furnishing labor to the farmers more rapidly than has been possible in the past. More than 100 farm hands were sent to the Kansas wheat fields by the Colorado Springs office during the harvest.

Except in the case of farm work, conditions in heavy trades in Colorado Springs were not as favorable during 1914 as in 1913. There was little heavy construction work, in consequence the railroads did not have any use for common labor and there was but little public work.

During the year 4,175 men were supplied with work through the Colorado Springs office. There were 4,020 calls for men and 4,727 men made application for work. There were 1,405 women employed during the year.

August was the heaviest month, the farm work being at its height and the tourist season demanding its heavy quota of labor. During that month 691 men and 218 women were given work. In August there were 154 more applications for men than could be filled, and in September 118 positions could not be filled. February is the lightest month of the year in labor circles here.

There is no special class of laborer who applies for work in Colorado Springs. In many of the large eastern cities there are several foreign elements entering into the labor problem, but in Colorado Springs there are all classes, according to Daily. However, the American-born laborer is in demand. "The majority of men who apply for work in this office," Daily said, "are young fellows from the farms or from the small middle-west towns."

Wages paid for farm labor vary according to the season. The general wage for farm labor during the harvest season is $1.50 a day with board. During the winter time the farmers employ their help by the month, paying about $30 a month.

Farm hands and hotel and restaurant helpers make up the principal class of labor furnished by the Colorado Springs bureau.

SPRINGS HORSES MAKE QUICK TRIP EASTWARD

Eighteen Carloads, Purchased Here for War Use, Reach Missouri in Record Time

With 18 carloads of horses, secured in and around Colorado Springs, and collected here by Maj. F. Wise of the British Remount commission, representing the English government, a Rock Island train made what is said to be a record run for a freight between this city and Lathrop, Mo., Thursday. The distance to that city is 706 miles, and was made in 32 hours and 10 minutes. A record run also was established between here and Phillipsburg, Kan., a distance of 345 miles. The time was 13 hours and 10 minutes. The entire run was made without feeding or watering the horses. By law, the greatest length of time in which live stock may go without food or water is 36 hours.

On account of the quick transportation demanded by Major Wise, the horses were pushed to the train and shipped at the earliest possible moment. H. T. Guard, a local horse dealer, was in charge of the shipment, and returned yesterday from Lathrop, Missouri.

CAN'T FOOL ALL KIDDIES ABOUT CHICKEN'S AGE

Mary Patterson Misses Guess on Leghorn by Three Days; Richard
Roby Also Prize Winner

One of the most successful poultry rabbit and even shows ever held in this city closed last night with the awarding of prizes in the boys' and girls' guessing contest. Richard Roby, 23, East Kiowa street, won the Harris Road Belgian hare, guessing its age at 10 months and missing a correct estimate by only three days. Mary Patterson, 817 West Pike Peak avenue, won the White Leghorn with a guess of 2 years and 6 months; the age of the fowl being two years, 6 months and 3 days. Owing to several guesses being the same in the rabbit contest, the names of the winners were put in a hat and drawn. Roby winning.

The rabbit display was considered by experts to be one of the best in the country, with the poultry exhibits deserving a great deal of praise. The corn show drew many spectators and its success was due largely to the work of R. L. Haynes and Joe Malone, who directed the exposition. Out-of-town exhibitors, of which there were nearly 100, spent both time and money in Christmas shopping here, and expressed themselves as delighted with the city and the hospitality of the people. The success of the show was due to the cooperation between the poultry and rabbit fanciers. It is estimated that several hundred visitors saw the exhibits during the week. The entries in the rabbit and poultry events exceeded those of last year.

Other officers for the coming year are: Mrs. Lydia Gardner, senior vice president; Mrs. Leon Taylor, junior vice president; Miss Bessie Suffocool, chaplain; Mrs. Estelle Edgcomb, treasurer. The council consists of Mrs. Lucy Anderson, Mrs. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Lundstrom. Mrs. Beulah Trippell was elected patriotic instructor. The regular annual meeting of the society was held Friday evening, most of the members being in attendance. There were four candidates for initiation. The tent accepted an invitation to install officers with the Sons of Veterans January 11. The president extended her thanks to the members for their generous donation to the Christmas box for the Soldiers' home. The box will be held until the middle of the week for other gifts.

Express Companies

Are Prepared for
Rush of Holidays

By the middle of the week the Christmas rush season will be in full swing and already the express companies are being deluged with hundreds of packages. According to estimates yesterday the movement is considerably heavier than at the same time last year. The reason for this is the lower rate induced by the entrance of the parcel post into the field formerly monopolized by the express companies. Heavy shipments are expected by the local companies within the next few days.

Little protest is reported over the small revenue tax, imposed under a recent act of congress, and the shippers are cheerfully paying the required sum. A great deal of satisfaction is expressed by the clerks at the early start they are getting in the rush.

Second "The Damsel" Will Take Place at the Antlers Dec. 30

For those who attended the first the damsel at the Antlers last month, as well as for those who were unable to take advantage of that delightful opportunity, the news of another affair of the kind will be received with enthusiasm. The second of a series of masquerade to be given for the benefit of the Day Nursery will occur at the Antlers December 30. Plans for the affair are in the hands of the same competent committee as the last, with the addition of Mrs. Arthur Lennox Drummond. Miss Rena Strong's orchestra will furnish the music and it is hoped that exhibition dancers may be present.

SPECIAL CHURCH MUSIC

Mrs. Brisson will assist the Temple Male quartet at the services of the First Baptist church this evening. Following is the program: "Nearer My God to Thee," Sweeney Temple Male Quartet. "Praise the Lord," Watson Temple Male Quartet. Violin solo—Schubert's Serenade, Mrs. Brisson. "The Night of Rest," Parks Temple Male Quartet.

HOLLY DANNERS GREET HOLIDAY TRAVELERS

A holiday banner of a handsome holly and poinsettia design, extending season greetings to patrons of the Denver & Rio Grande and Western Pacific railroads, has just made its appearance in all freight and ticket offices, depot waiting rooms, general offices, dining cars and Pullman sleepers on this system. This method of bringing Christmas cheer to the traveler was first adopted by this road a year ago, and the innovation was received so kindly by the traveling public that it was repeated again this year.

"BLOOD WILL TELL"

The Heroes of the war
"Blood will tell," is an axiom that in all the ages has never been gainsaid. Every man who does a brave, heroic act carries within his veins a quality of blood that urges and sustains him. No matter whether he is a hero or a coward, within his veins are ancestors or from the sound and healthy constitution of his immediate parents, whose only distinction is honorable toil and a simple, virtuous life. It matters little where or how you obtain it, but it matters all the world that by some means you possess "good blood." Good blood is first, last and always the making of manly men and womanly women. It is the source of all courage, virtue and happiness. A new man can be made out of one that's "used-up," bilious and dyspeptic. It's done by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It starts the "stagnant" liver into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, cleanses, repairs, and strengthens the system, and restores health and vigor. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets to work all the processes of digestion and assimilation, and builds up flesh and strength. It's the only blood and liver remedy that's guaranteed, in every case, to benefit or cure. If it doesn't do all that's claimed for it, the money is promptly refunded. But it keeps its promises—that's the reason it can be sold in this way. It is not a secret remedy for its ingredients are printed on wrapper. You only pay for the good you get. "Discovery" strengthens Weak Lungs, relieves Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections. FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, bound in cloth, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of wrapping and mailing only. Address: Doctor Pierce, Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. Adv.

Miss Ruth Skeel of Denver, a pupil of Oscar Hammer, will appear twice, singing the "Amour Vieux" from Saint-Saens, "Gemma et Dalila," and a group of three little songs. Miss Skeel has appeared with orchestras in the east and comes to Colorado Springs with an excellent reputation as a soloist.

The feature of the orchestral program will be the incomparable allegretto from Beethoven's Seventh symphony, the movement in this work taking the place of the slow movement. Writing of the symphony entire in the Minneapolis Journal not long ago, Victor Nilsson said:

"The Seventh symphony, in A major, opus 92, was written in 1812. Following upon the Eroica or Hero symphony, the Pastoral symphony and the Fate symphony, speculations as to the subject or inner meaning of the Seventh have been many and eager. Beethoven, more and more isolated by his increasing deafness, and the still more rapidly increasing superciliousness in culture of an age set back by the Napoleonic wars, did not himself reveal it. Of all interpretations made, that of Wagner carries the greatest weight, because it is to him that we owe a revival of Beethoven's music and a revolution in the art of orchestral direction that brought the symphonies of the master works of art with thought and emotion."

Wagner called the Seventh symphony "the apotheosis of the dance." It is true that the whole work is vibrant with dance rhythms, and that all this dancing is not of the common mortal sort, but idealized etherealized it seems as if Beethoven, the eager, self-made student and thinker, in this symphony gives his conception of life according to classical Grecian ideals. Germany is generally conceived as divided into northern and southern halves; but, spiritually as well as climatically, it is divided into a softer and richer West Germany and a sterner and chiller East Germany. Strictly trained in classical languages and Latin, the west is of Grecian, the east of Latin spirit. Of West Germany was spirit like Luther, Goethe, Schiller, the Brothers Grimm, of East Germany, Kant, Humboldt, Arndt, Bismarck. Beethoven was entirely of West Germany and loved dearly the Grecian world of beauty and joy in Goethe's art and philosophy.

His Seventh symphony, in the very first harmonies, gives us a glimpse of Elysium. The mighty "staircase" passage that follows leads the eye up to its Olympian heights. And up those heights are the measures of the entire work except those of the last movement which smacks of the salt of the earth, the brims of the sea-shore.

The complete program:
Marche at Cortège, Ground Overture, "The Haymons," Ralfs, Concerto solo, "Amour-vieux" solo, from "Barnum et Dalila," Saint-Saens, Miss Ruth Skeel.
Mrs. J. Dawson Hawkins at the piano.
Romance, "In Love," Zacher, The Mill, Raff, Marcietta, "A Little Past," Souders, Allegretto from Seventh Symphony, Beethoven.
Contralto solo:
Happy Song, Theresa Del Riego, The Fairy Pipers, A. H. Brewer, Good-by, F. Paolo Tosti.
Miss Skeel.

LITTLE ROCK ADOPTS PLAN

The Colorado Springs Musical Club may yet find itself the originator of a method of musical education for the masses of more than local importance. The plan—the basis of which is the Sunday afternoon concert—is well known here, of course; but it also is coming to be known elsewhere.

M. O. Barnes, first conductor of the Musical Club orchestra and director when the organization was first presented to the public, has carried the Sunday concert idea to Little Rock, Ark., where it has been taken up by the Musical Center and is now being carried out most successfully.

Mr. Barnes organized the orchestra for the Musical Center, recruiting it from among the professional musicians playing in local theaters. It numbers about 20 musicians and judging from press reports, is a most capable organization. At one of the recent concerts Mr. Barnes appeared as violin soloist, playing "Vieuxtemps' Reverie." Mrs. Barnes played the accompaniment.

Unlike those played by the Musical Club orchestra here, the programs given in Little Rock are made up largely of solo, duet and chorus work, both vocal and instrumental. The programs are made out by various of the soloists or members of the Musical Center, chiefly because of the many special numbers.

The Sunday concerts in Little Rock have met with instant success. Though but few have been given, already the theater is filled to capacity, long before the time announced for the concert, and the crowds are most enthusiastic in their reception both of the orchestral and solo numbers.

The plan in the Arkansas city is similar to that here. The concerts are given at Little Rock to the public and are meant to provide Sunday amusement and to aid in a general campaign for the cultivation of an appreciation for good music among the masses.

ESPERANTO

IN PARIS, WHEN WAR BEGAN

II.

The concluding half of the narrative of Miss Grace Randolph of Niagara Falls, N. Y., taken from the "American Esperantist," is here presented in the former part of the story as given in this column a week ago. Miss Randolph tells of the difficulties, into which she, in common with all who attempted to attend the Esperanto congress in Paris at the beginning of last August, were plunged by the sudden outbreak of the war and of her repeated experience of practical relief at critical junctures through aid which she commanded solely in consequence of her Esperanto and the fellow feeling of others who shared her interest in the language. Her account continues as follows:

"When I finally reached the ticket window I was told that gold only was accepted. My heart almost ceased to beat, and a feeling of utter helplessness came over me. For 10 francs was all I had in gold, and the fare, even second class, was $14 francs. There were many Americans all about me, but no one offered to buy my ticket, and it was to a German Esperantist I now became indebted. He loaned me the gold I lacked to buy my ticket to London.

"With my ticket in my possession, I next endeavored to check my trunk. Another shock awaited me. No baggage except that belonging to the army was being carried."

"What was I to do? My brother, some years ago, while studying in Paris, had lived with a French family in the Latin Quarter, and to get my trunk to them was my only hope. With great good fortune I succeeded in getting a taxi, and while others were waiting in vain for a cab on almost every corner, I crossed the city to the Latin Quarter near the Luxembourg Gardens. Here with the good family Lohseu at 29 Rue Cassette I left my trunk and hurried back to the Gare St. Lazare. Worked in was into the crowds and reached the train platform only to have the heavy iron grating closed in front of me.

"Oh, please let me through," I pleaded of the guard. My friends, I believe, are on this train. Let me through also! pleaded an elderly woman back of me. My friends have gone through, and they have my money and ticket. The guard, however, was open to no pleadings.

"Back of us the crowds increased. Before long there must have been more than 1,000 people waiting for the next train for Dieppe, which was due to leave in two hours. As no one knew from which platform the train would leave, we were truly on a surging mob.

"At 11:30 I got near enough to the platform to catch a train and, after numerous delays and a weary wait of eight and a half hours on the quay at Dieppe, I got a boat at 1:30 a. m. and reached London at 11 a. m. on Monday, August 3. In the 48 hours I had had but the ham sandwich and the cup of tea in Paris and a cheese sandwich on the dock at Dieppe.

When I left the boat at New Haven, an Esperantist asked if I had seen the war news. I replied, "No," that I did not have money enough to buy a paper. In my pocketbook were just 15 French centimes—less than 10 cents. He dispatched a minute and returned with a paper and also handed me 2 shillings in English money—50 cents. Once more my heart was filled with gratitude toward Esperantism, especially when I learned that, by a special decree the bank holiday in London, which ordinarily would have ended on Monday, had been extended till Friday, and during this interval neither letters of credit, travelers' checks, nor money could obtain English gold from any source.

I went to the place where I had stayed in London before going to visit my Esperanto friends. They found me there a few days later, and insisted that I go home with them and remain until I could get a passage to America. "At the headquarters of the British Esperanto association, where I went nearly every day while in London, I met people of various nationalities, each of whom had a thrilling tale to tell.

"Mr. Mude, president of the British Esperanto association very kindly offered to bring my trunk over from Paris; but I left London before it was safe to take luggage over, and my trunk is still in Paris.

"I met Americans everywhere, and they were friendly and charming, but it was the Esperantists who smothered the really ripest places in my mind.

The last sentence of Miss Randolph's points out a fact to which testimony is now abundant: the extraordinary friendship shown to one another by Esperantists in the time of war is brought on by the very fact. The Esperantists who aided her, it may be observed, were English, French and German, and, in most cases, had no other cause for special interest in her predicament beyond their common Esperantism. Another American who, like herself, was bound for the Paris Esperanto congress, and who also received noteworthy kindness from Esperantists—Mr. James C. Sanderson of Minneapolis, Minn.—writes: "One rather wonders whether several thousand such bonds (of friendship through Esperanto) would not be more effective in preserving world peace than neutrality treaties, arbitration treaties, proofs that war is unprofitable, calculations of the number of plowshares which could be made from a Krupp gun or any other purely intellectual appeal."

certs will have on the general public. It is to be presumed that the same is said of the Little Rock series. And the plan is the only logical and practical one yet advanced.

"This is the landscape I wanted you to suggest a title for, dear," said the artist standing aside and proudly surveying his work. Why not call it "home?" asked his wife, who lacked his fine imagination. "Home? Why? Because there is no place like it," she replied meekly.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

GRIDIRON CLUB FORCED TO CONSERVE NEUTRALITY

GIBES AND TAKE-OFFS ARE CONFINED TO AMERICA. CELEBRATED FUNCTION PREGNANT WITH USUAL WIT AND HUMOR, BUT NIX ON THE WAR STUFF

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—At the annual meeting of the Gridiron club here today, Edgar C. Snyder of the Omaha Bee was elected president. Other officers elected were as follows: Vice president, Louis W. Strayer, Pittsburgh Dispatch; secretary, John S. Shriver, Baltimore Star; treasurer, James J. Hornaday, Indianapolis News.

Harry J. Brown of the Portland Oregonian was elected to membership.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Members of the cabinet, congressmen, diplomats and leaders of all activities of the nation's life gathered around the board here tonight at the Gridiron club's winter dinner.

President Wilson's earnest injunction to the American people to refrain from public discussion of war issues was strictly regarded and the location of every one of the many satires and dramatic skits was always within the shore lines of the two oceans which bound the Americas. Uncle Sam's words were given full opportunity to air their grievances, for the most part in song in a gathering described as "Uncle Sam's Jubilee."

The negro complained of the workings of the civil service law which "has sentenced me four colored voters to the levees and cotton fields than any other pernicious legislation." He also deplored the new primary laws and to the air of "Old Uncle Ned" he sang:

Poor Uncle Ned.
There was an old delegate, his name was Uncle Ned.
He lived long ago, long ago,
He went to conventions whenever he was bid,
And that's how he lived, long ago, in chorus.

"Then lay down the shovel and the hoe
And hang up the fiddle and the bow
There's no more work for poor Uncle Ned."

The primaries laid him low.
The farmer was another ward with a complaint; he wanted a bunch of greenbacks. Up home he had a shed full of quashes and wanted the treasury to issue circulating notes on them.

Two other wards were Colonel Watson and Colonel Harvey. They had no grievances, but expressed their contentment in a song, the refrain of which was:

"I've come back, come back,
I've come back, Dear Leader, to thee, to thee,
I've come back, come back,
I've come back, Dear Leader, to thee."

Among other wards, Alaska wanted to be shielded from exploitation of capitalists. Hawaii called attention to Queen Liliuokalani's lack of pension; Porto Rico wanted more government jobs and a duty on sugar, and Filipino wanted to know when he would grow up and be independent. When the latter was chided and told that he must not get hasty he replied:

The Politician and Taxes.
The politician complained that taxes had been laid on business paper, chewing gum, billiard rooms and circuses, while whisky had gone Scot free because the bill had been passed in October and the election was in November, and in a burst of satire he sang:

"If we have to lay a tax,
Don't put it onto me
Put it onto luxuries,
But keep it off of me
Stick it onto chewing gum."

"For billiard cues says I
But for the love of Mike I beg you
Keep it off of me."

A realistic prize fight was staged in the center of the dining hall and the spectators were treated to a lively mill. The stake was "a large house located at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue," and the principals were "Kid Democracy" and "Old G. O. P.," the referee being "Bull Moose," who announced his ability to lick both of the two old parties. His decisions had never been questioned, even when overruled by the supreme court.

A moving picture show enlivened the proceedings representing "the greatest deliberative body on earth; the United States senate," in session, but the general effect was greatly marred first, by a strenuous objection to such an undignified encroachment upon the body and when that had been removed by the insertion of his own name into the advertisement, by the fact that Senator (Ole) James persisted in standing up and thereby blotting out the remainder of the picture.

Roosevelt Back to Oyster Bay.
Following his invariable rule, the Gridiron club initiated, in the presence of its many guests a new member, William E. Digham, Washington correspondent of the Boston Transcript who was described as a "journalist" who would like to get into an association of newspaper men. Answering questions he said that he was "in pretty good standing in Secretary Bryan's anteroom."

A Roosevelt song to the tune of "I'm on My Way to Mandalay" followed with this chorus:

I'm on my way to Oyster Bay
Beneath my sheltering roof I've got to stay,
I sing a song,
Of things gone wrong
I'm no longer trusted
They have got me flustered
And the Big Stick's busted
That's why I'm on the way to Oyster Bay.

I've come to say good-by.

"Old He is Week brought together some old spirits under the kindly eye of the Goddess of Liberty on an elevated perch, who had come to welcome them from her station on the dome of the Capitol. Uncle Joe Cannon was among the first arrivals, and when asked how long he was going to stay, replied:

"Well, I didn't buy no return ticket."
Cy Sullivan, another returning congressman, announced that up his was "the hunting is poor, all the Bull Moose have been killed off." When Nicholas Longworth appeared Cannon inquired:

Couldn't Bring Father-in-Law.
How's the family, Nick? Bring 'em all to the celebration."
Longworth—"All except father-in-law."

Cannon—"Why don't you persuade him to stay in some of these lonesome places he writes about?"
Longworth—"There ain't no lonesomer place than Oyster Bay right now."

When told that Secretary Daniels had abolished the wine mess on warships during his absence from Washington, Sullivan exclaimed:

That means no more inspection cruises by the naval committee."
When Cannon learned that the American troops had been withdrawn from Vera Cruz November 28, he exclaimed: "I thought I heard Brins on that day. It must have been that salute to the flag."

Other skits portrayed the adequacy of the United States army as viewed by Representative Gardner, the federal reserve board in full action trying to "substantiate" the newspaper reporters and a mock rehearsal of the Gridiron club itself. And emulating the publications of the European hand-colored, the club caused to be placed at each plate "The Blue Paper," correspondence relating to the campaign preceding the outbreak of hostilities on November 3, 1914, and the fatalities incident thereto.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Continuation of the offensive in west Galicia and successful repulse of Russian attacks southeast of Lodz near Piotrkow were reported today to the Austro-Hungarian embassy here from Vienna. The dispatch which made no mention of the campaign in Serbia, follows: "In west Galicia our attacks are continuing uninterrupted. Hostile attacks in the neighborhood of Piotrkow have failed. The tenacity of the Austro-Hungarian-German offensive continues. Our troops alone captured last week 1,300 Russians. Perfect cooperation of the allied (German and Austro-Hungarian) troops evidenced."

KING PETER INSPIRES SERBIAN TROOPS

PARIS, Dec. 12.—The inspiring presence and words of King Peter of Serbia are given as the chief cause of the successes recently achieved by the Serbian army, says a dispatch from Nish, Serbia, to the Matin.

"Soldiers, heroes, your old king has come to die with you for the fatherland, for Serbia. Let us drive out the enemy."

These words, says the Matin's dispatch, were pronounced by King Peter before the order for the general attack was given which resulted in the defeat of the Austrians. The aged king arrived on the battle front at the supreme moment when the country's fate hung in the balance. Mounted on a charge, he slowly rode through the Serbian lines and was everywhere greeted with the wildest enthusiasm.

His words, according to the Nish dispatch, had the effect of a train of gunpowder and the unforgettable battle began before Topola, the cradle of the KaraGeorgevitch dynasty, 10 miles from Mount Oplenitz where rest the ashes of the Serbian hero's royal family.

VENDERS OF DOUBTFUL PUBLICITY AVOID SPRINGS AND ITS CENSORSHIP COMMITTEE

Chamber of Commerce Cuts Questionable Advertising Schemes From 52 to 5 Annually

"There has been little work for the committee to do this year less than a dozen propositions having been presented." From the annual report of the Chamber of Commerce advertising censorship committee.

Advertising was one of the first professions into which, except that something vaguely described now as "efficiency methods." Or perhaps it would be better to state it this way: Advertising was one of the first professions to take up efficiency methods. Efficiency as here used may mean any one of a half dozen things—it depends entirely on what profession the man using it happens to belong. At any rate, in the general sense it means greatly increasing the value received from a product through doing away with waste and stopping leaks in the production.

Since they forgot recognition of themselves in the world of commerce, advertising experts have worked continuously for efficiency. Their great lesson in writing was: Cut out superfluous details, tell it all, tell it clearly and above all, concisely, and don't forget the punch. If they observe this lesson in all its angles they have an advertisement that has reached the highest degree of efficiency.

Selecting Best Medium.
But this is only half of it, or less. The selection of mediums is one of the greatest problems. It is comparatively easy for an expert to tell what his client has after he has bought his space. It is deciding just where his ad should be placed that causes him the most worry. Getting the greatest amount of space, reaching the greatest number of possible buyers and securing a reputation with his medium—that has been his big problem.

When one realizes the great number of advertising mediums—newspapers, magazines, programs of a dozen varieties, mail lists, doggers, street cards, billboards, etc.—and that the average appropriation will permit the use of but a comparatively few, he will realize in a way the task which lies before the advertising expert at all times. Campaigns that, at local ones, cannot be mapped out at the beginning of the year and strictly adhered to for the 12 months following. There are too many emergencies to meet.

But these are merely a few—they are but legitimate outlets, so-called. Every day the ad managers were approached by some one or other who had a new plan of publicity. New plans are as common as yellow journals and about as useful. Once a while one of the plans, however, is really worth while to certain advertisers. Hence, every ad man was necessarily compelled to spend an hour or more listening to their oratory, and those over the possibilities of their. Of course, this usually meant a waste of time. And time to an ad man is the most precious thing in existence.

Censorship Committee Established.
So when the Chamber of Commerce talked of establishing an advertising censorship committee, not a few ad managers in Colorado Springs greeted it with a feeling of unbounded joy. Increased efficiency—that, what it meant. They would not be compelled to waste time leading now plans explaining them and much more time in investigating them and the standing of their backers, and they would be protected from fly-by-night publicity vendors.

At that time, it is safe to say, ad men were approached on an average of once a week with some new plan. This doesn't account for the other plans that never reached the higher fellows, that were worked successfully on the little ones who are expected to be easier game.

The censorship committee asked advertising men to cooperate in putting the censorship into operation. It went over the list of mediums in existence at the time. Of 50 K-ads it found getting results and placed the others on a black-list. These lists were sent to advertisers and they were ready to accept and acted upon. At the same time cards were sent out to be placed in the office or near the entrance, the insertion being to the effect that unless the proposed publicity plan had been passed upon by the Chamber of Commerce censorship committee it would be useless to attempt to place it before the firm.

Fewer Schemes Proposed.
As to how the plan worked. It is safe to say that two years ago ad men were approached on an average of once a week with some scheme, good, bad or indifferent. The annual report of the chamber's committee states that less than a dozen propositions were presented to it during the entire year. Perhaps half of these were passed upon. In other words, where the advertising experts formerly were compelled to listen to 52 schemes a year, now they have less than half a dozen brought to their attention.

No publicity dispensers heed the signs. They must assuredly do. The merchants meant cooperation when they promised the Chamber of Commerce to aid in the plan. At first the

U. S. NAVY SHORT OF OFFICERS, SAYS BLUE

Not Sufficient Men to Man Vessels, He Declares, in Annual Report

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The report of the navy department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, is published today. The report, made public today, shows that the navy department has 500 officers and 1,000 enlisted men, 200 of whom are in the fleet. The report also shows that the navy department has 1,000 officers and 1,000 enlisted men, 200 of whom are in the fleet. The report also shows that the navy department has 1,000 officers and 1,000 enlisted men, 200 of whom are in the fleet.

There are, altogether, 550 men and 200 officers short of the number necessary to man the vessels of military value which could be used in time of war, the statement adds. "While there is little doubt that this demand would be met by the ex-service men now in civil life, confusion and delay would result unless an organization was perfected prior to the outbreak of war."

Shortage of officers in the total number of the navy is a serious matter. It will necessarily be several years before the requirements can be met as the supply of officers is limited by the naval academy's output. From captain to admiral, the officers are being promoted at an increasing rate. Very little service in the latter grade before retirement. A word which has been considering these conditions is now preparing its report.

Of the expense of campaigns carried on across the water at any great distance, Admiral Blue said: "I worked out the figures some time ago and found that in order to keep our fleet supplied with fuel and provisions while operating 5,000 to 6,000 miles from its base in the United States, about 200 merchant vessels would be required. Naturally we would hope to get these vessels from the merchant marine."

Plans were disregarded, being taken merely as a blind. But the first question asked the backer of some scheme was: "What does the Chamber of Commerce say about it?" And if he hadn't seen the Chamber of Commerce, he was advised to do so immediately and politely told that the interview was at an end until he had a censorship committee guarantee in his pocket. He was simply forced to take his plan to the censors. There it stood on its merits.

The committee is secret. Perhaps less than a dozen men know who serves on it. The publicity plans are left with the secretary, placed before the committee, thoroughly investigated from every angle and accepted or rejected as the case may be. It has happened that a poor medium has passed by the board, and merchants who have relied on the word of the censors instead of taking a chance have never made a mistake in placing advertising.

So far as mediums are concerned, advertising in Colorado Springs has now reached a stage of efficiency that it would be difficult to pass. It is the work entirely of the Chamber of Commerce. Yet few people credit that body with abolishing the numberless takes of past years.

Italy Preparing to Defend Under Dog When Peace Comes

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Italy probably will ally herself with the defeated powers in the European war, which peace is made to prevent them from being beaten down forever, according to Count Giulio Bolognesi, Italian consul in Chicago, in explaining today enormous purchases of army supplies being made in the United States for his government.

"Italy is preparing to defend herself in case any nation injures her interests," Count Bolognesi said. "She is also preparing to be in a position to speak when the terms of peace are being made."

According to the count, the Italian army will number 2,000,000 men, fully armed and equipped for active campaigning within a few months. The war, he said, probably would last until next October or November.

Five million bushels of wheat were bought in Chicago yesterday by the Italian government, he said. A commission now in New York will purchase 25,000 horses for the Italian army. Another set of buyers are in the south and west buying large lots of saddles and other supplies.

Each of the above houses has arranged an especially attractive bill for Santa Claus Day at the regular prices of admission, and all we ask you to do is to attend and see that all your friends do. It's an easy way for you to do your share in Helping Santa Claus and making a happy Christmas for some of those less fortunate than yourself who otherwise would not have any Christmas. On certain days THE GAZETTE will donate papers to the newsies, they to keep one-half of all their street sales and the other half to go to the fund. We are also going to donate $25.00 to whatever amount is secured. Every letter addressed to Santa Claus coming from a deserving source will in some way be answered. Every little sick kiddie will see Santa Claus and have a Christmas. In other words, everyone within reach is going to be remembered on a day when everyone should be happy. Santa Claus has a big job on his hands, and you can do your part in helping him. Be sure to attend the theaters on Santa Claus Days—take the kiddies with you—it will be your donation to the SANTA CLAUS FUND.

AMERICAN CONSUL AT ANTWERP IS HUNGRY

Appeals for Food for Family; King Albert Appreciates Foreign Aid

LONDON, Dec. 11.—"Your work should save Belgium from famine," in these words King Albert of the Belgians replied to a message of good wishes sent to him by the American commission for relief in Belgium. "His majesty," the king's reply continues, "earnestly congratulates your commission on its generous and enlightened initiative. He desires that you should know he is grateful."

That the famine in Belgium is no respecter of persons was vividly brought home by a letter received today by the American commission from Henry W. Hootch, the United States consul general at Antwerp, who appeals for food for his family, for his consular staff and for himself.

"About 10 days ago Jarvis Bell of New York, while on his way to Brussels, kindly informed me that if my family and myself needed anything to let him or the relief committee know and that they would provide as best they could."

"At the time the offer was made I did not think it would be necessary to make use of it, but we have been suddenly made to realize that Antwerp is as a few days ago all the bakers in the city declared they were no longer able to supply bread for lack of flour."

"For the time being they again have started their work, but the outlook for a steady supply of bread this winter is very gloomy. In view of this condition, I would request the American relief committee to let me have at the earliest opportunity some flour for myself and the families of the consular staff."

STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS FORM NAIL ORGANIZATION

Representatives Meet in Washington to Perfect Body; Will Hold State Conventions

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—State highway commissioners and engineers from 27 states were represented here today when the organization of the American Association of State Highway Officials was perfected. It is expected that all states will be represented in the organization ultimately. These officers were elected:

President, Henry G. Shirley of Maryland; vice president, Austin B. Fletcher of California; treasurer, F. P. Rodgers of Michigan.

At today's meeting 17 states were represented by either their highway commissioners or engineers, while 10 states were represented by proxy. None but state highway commissioners or engineers will constitute the voting power of the association.

The purpose of the organization is to centralize the work of good roads organizations as far as possible and to secure the holding of one good roads convention annually. It also was designed to cooperate with federal officials in road problems.

During the day the delegates called on President Wilson.

M'LENNAN PROTESTS RETENTION OF TROOPS

Ammons Silent on Report of Contemplated Visit to Capital

DENVER, Dec. 12.—Protest against the retention of federal troops in Colorado was expressed tonight in a long telegram addressed to President Woodrow Wilson, signed by John M'Lenan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America.

DENVER, Dec. 12.—Gov. E. M. Ammons today declined to confirm or deny a report that he has suggested to President Wilson that they confer in Washington over the proposed withdrawal of federal troops from Colorado. Governor-elect George A. Jackson had planned to go to Washington to appear before the house public lands committee in support of the project of setting aside Estes Park as a national park. The governor stated today, however, that he doubted whether he could leave Denver at present.

ROCKEFELLER SENDS ANOTHER FOOD SHIP

Arrangements Being Made to Send Parcel Post Packages to Belgium

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Further relief went to the Belgian people today with the sailing of the steamer Neches, carrying 6,000 tons of food supplies. The entire cargo, with the exception of a few small donations, was purchased by the Rockefeller foundation, and is valued at about $400,000. The bulk of the shipment consists of flour. Consignments of beans, peas, coffee and salted meats also were on board.

It was announced today by the commission for relief in Belgium that an arrangement had been completed whereby the postoffice department would pay for the postage of parcels sent by persons in the United States who desire to help the Belgians by contributions of packages of food, to go to the nearest postoffice, and send his donation in at the expense of the commission. The commission will refund parcel post payments to individuals.

LEITER TELLS OF CORNER ON WHEAT

Men Began Shipping Grain to Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—The plans of Joseph Leiter's monumental effort to corner the wheat market in 1898, when he ran the price up to $1.35 a bushel and finally lost between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000, was related in detail by himself as a witness today in Federal Judge Humphrey's court.

Mr. Leiter asserted that the late F. H. Peavy and the late C. A. Pillsbury of Minneapolis, who, he declared, were virtually his partners, had kept their agreements and had not released grain on the Chicago market during his operations, he would have been successful. The Minneapolis grain men would not, but the agreement in writing, he said, because they asserted it was a "criminal conspiracy" under the laws of Minnesota, and they did not wish to risk anything which might be brought against them later.

Mr. Leiter, who now lives in Washington, is the son of the late Levi Z. Leiter, who sold millions of dollars worth of downtown Chicago property to make good his son's losses.

Mr. Leiter took the witness stand to defend himself in a suit to recover $200,000, the principal and interest on two notes which the Interior Elevator company and the Monarch Elevator company, the latter represented by Chester W. Lane of Minneapolis, say is owing for wheat bought in 1898.

Asked what his occupation in that year was, Mr. Leiter said he was "more busy running a wheat deal than anything else."

He told of a visit to Minneapolis, where he said he conferred with Mr. Pillsbury and Mr. Peavy, who was president of two elevator companies bringing suit. James Peavy, brother of the latter, also was in the conference, Mr. Leiter said.

"I told them I wanted it understood that no wheat be shipped to Chicago, as I had my May corner on," he testified. "This was agreed to. I said I didn't want the 'shorts' to get the wheat we had so they could deliver it to me in Chicago. I told them I wanted to square off the shorts and get all I could."

Mr. Leiter admitted he paid Peavy and company "a couple of million dollars" in margins on their purchases.

Later when the wheat began to pour into the Chicago market, Leiter said he told Peavy he thought he was the man who was shipping it.

"He got very mad," said Mr. Leiter, "and there threatened all sorts of dire threats. He said he would burn the post wide open and he did."

PREDICTS A BRITISH REPUBLIC

War Will Result in Leveling All Classes, Says English Lecturer

From the Boston Herald.
The United States of Britannia, the United States of Europe and the unification of the classes and the masses are to be three outcomes of the present war in Europe, prophesied Dr. Stanton of London, before the Boston School of Social Science at Tremont temple. He also predicted that, as fast as England is concerned at least, the war again will result in leveling all the part it did in the events leading up to the war.

"The time will come," he said, "as a result of this war, when every man, woman and child in Great Britain will find it only the destiny of his own government, but also the destiny of every foreign government."

England is not a part of Europe, continued Dr. Stanton, "for she has been since she fought the Spanish War. She belongs to the New World. England possesses no colonies, then so-called colonies or possessions are as much a part of England as England herself. The center of the British empire a few days ago was not at Westminster, but it was where the Australian cruiser sank the Emden. One result of this war will be the formation of the United States of Britannia, in the government of which every section of the empire will have representation."

TURKEY TO CONTROL AMERICAN SCHOOLS

Will Treat Institutions Same as U. S. Treats Foreign Colleges

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Informal assurances have been given Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople by members of the Ottoman cabinet that American institutions in Turkey will receive similar treatment to that accorded foreign institutions in this country, without comment, the following paraphrase of Mr. Morgenthau's message.
The American ambassador at Constantinople has had an interview with the minister of public instruction and the minister of the interior. They propose that American institutions shall be treated the same as foreign institutions are treated in the United States, and will delay for 30 days the enforcement of most of the instructions that are objectionable. They stated that their chief desire is to secure supervisory control and direct relations with foreign institutions without guardianship of the embassy.

The minister of the interior, now acting minister of finance, has assumed temporarily posts of minister of war and minister of marine. Wholesale deportation of French and English from Beirut to Damascus occurred on the ninth and tenth by order of the Damascus commandant. The minister of interior has promised to stop these deportations as contrary to his orders.
Definite assurances were secured that French and others (words not decipherable) employed in American institutions of a charitable and educational character and many employed by American firms are to remain unmolested as a matter of favor to the United States.
The Standard Oil company declines to assume the risk of transporting money from Smyrna to Scia Nova. The Tennessee is to be sent to Alexandria with funds for Jaffa. Money will be sent to Jerusalem.

SIX WITNESSES HEARD IN CANON CITY TRIAL
CANON CITY, Dec. 12.—Six witnesses for the state testified today in the so-called Chandler murder case in which William King was killed during an alleged attack by striking miners on April 28; on the Chandler mine. Today's witnesses were Lee Bogardus, keeper of the company boarding house; Robert Hoard, colored roustabout; Robert Perrine, son of the marshal of Chandler; William Wilson of Florence, Colo.; John Miller colored, and Charles Veio. All gave detailed accounts of the attack. Bogardus stated that $400 worth of silverware and other valuables were missing from the boarding house after the strike left the town. Tom Weston and Felix Pogliano were referred to as leaders of the attacking party. The trial will be resumed Monday.

GERMAN REFUGEES FROM CHINA CAN COME TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—At the request of the German embassy here the state department has undertaken to arrange for the coming to the United States of a number of German women and children, refugees at Shanghai, China, most of whom left Kiao-Chow before the siege of that fortress by the Japanese and English began.
The department has referred the matter to the bureau of immigration for its opinion, as there might be objection if any of the refugees were liable to become public charges.
Arrangements also have been made for sending relief funds to German prisoners in Siberia. The necessary authority has been given to the American minister in China to send funds to him to the detention camps where the Germans were reported to be badly in need of money.

FRESHMEN BASKETBALLERS FEATURE OF OPENING DAY

Former Terror Stars Defeat Juniors
55 to 11; Considerable Fast
Material Unearthed

Teamwork and the weird basketballing ability of Captain Peterson gave the freshmen team a runaway victory from the junior quintet in the opening of the class schedule of the game at the gymnasium in Coe hall yesterday afternoon. The infants won by the score of 55 to 11, and so clearly outplayed their larger opponents that there never was any doubt of the final outcome. Whether or not it was more practice together or the natural ability of the players, especially those who were members of the 1913 Terror championship five, is a question. However, when the roll is called for the varsity team it will take some fast men to win places from the fledglings. Playing against such star athletes as Mack Davis, a basketball player of considerable experience, Jack Taylor, Frank Evans, Turner and Dockstater, the freshmen seemed to have but little trouble in getting the ball, zigzagging its across the court down to their own basket and then tossing it in the ring. The freshman team consisted of Peterson, Sheffer and Holman of the 1913 Terror and the two Sheppards, Paul and Percy.

The sophomore team had considerable trouble in walloping the seniors, winning 22 to 15. The sophomores consisted of Cover, Minkoff, Liljestrom, Rawlings and Smythe, while the seniors numbered Williams, Gerlach, Howland, Wade and Grimley.

There was plenty of milling and hard scrambling on the floor during the afternoon and the fans who watched the athletes found plenty of fun. From all appearances basketball promises to be an attractive game at the college. The material looks good, and Coach Rothgeb has been giving the players some pointers whereby they should profit.

If basketball is made an intercollegiate sport at the college it will prove an attraction worth while. The players will be out this week for practice, and after the holidays, which begin on Friday, there will be something definite about entering the conference schedule.

When the gymnasium was planned the authorities made the mistake of not making arrangements for handling a large enough crowd. The galleries will seat about 300 and about 100 can find accommodations on the floor.

THIS BRAVE SOME SPENDER

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—In these days when the cost is so much of the careful basketball player, his farm, his bonds and his big account, it is only fair to say that the Braves of Boston have at least one spender among their number. This player went to New York shortly after the world series with the winner's share of $2,125 $1,100 which he received as a bonus and $750 from another source.

The $1,100 lasted him just 10 days in the big city, for at the end of that time he telegraphed to Boston and drew $100 in advance against his salary for next season.

JOHN EVERS REPORTED AS RESTING EASIER

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Captain John Evers of the Boston Braves, who is ill with pneumonia at a local hotel, was said to be resting easier today, having enjoyed a comfortable night.

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL TEAM GOES SEVEN YEARS WITHOUT DEFEAT

With seven consecutive Pacific northwest intercollegiate conference championships to its credit the University of Washington football team emerged Thanksgiving day from the game with the Washington State college undisputed master of the gridiron's port in the northwest. The university men have rounded out seven years without having suffered one defeat, by overwhelmingly beating the state college team, 45 to 0, establishing what is said to be a national record for continuous victories in football.

HARVARD DROPS MICHIGAN AND W. & J. FROM SCHEDULE; VIRGINIA AND CARLISLE REPLACE

Five Teams That Showed Crimson Hard Fight
During Season Are Cut Off the List

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 12.—The schedule makers for the Harvard football team of next year have decided upon a radical change from the list of last season, according to a statement from an authentic source tonight. Five of the teams which the Crimson faced this fall have been dropped. These are the University of Michigan, Washington and Jefferson, Springfield Y. M. C. A. college, Tufts and Bates.

Colby will open the season at the stadium, it is now proposed. Trinity, a newcomer, has been allotted the second game and negotiations have been closed with Pennsylvania State for the return of that team. The Princeton, Brown and Yale contests again will close the season in that order.

For the third mid-season dates thus left open. Five teams are under consideration. These are Virginia, which has not previously appeared on a Harvard schedule; West Point, Carlisle, Cornell and Williams, each of which has been absent from the stadium for one or more seasons.

BIG LEAGUERS COME FROM VILLAGES AND CITY YOUTHS LOSE

History of Game Shows That Scouts Go to Bush Towns
for Material

By FRANK G. MENKE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The city youth with big league baseball ambitions either must toss aside those ambitions or move to a small town. Otherwise he has just about as much chance of bursting into the big leagues as Jack Willard, has of winning from Jack Johnson in an honest fight.

For some strange reason, big league scouts pass up the big towns and spend their time burrowing among the small towns. The farther away the small town is the better. The scouts seem to give more weight to "tips" concerning ball players operating in towns of about 500 or 1,000 population than they do concerning stars in towns of 25,000 and 50,000.

When the scouts get a tip that there's a real ball player frisking around on the sand lots of Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Philadelphia or some other towns, they give those tips no consideration whatever.

"City Youths Copy Major Stars."

It's a strange, inexplicable situation. Cities like the above mentioned develop thousands of real ball players every year. Those players, when real ability is concerned, are far superior to the small town players. Those city players who have natural ability also have the added benefit of watching the major leaguers perform in their cities. The major leaguers act as models for the city ball players. The city players watch their actions closely. They watch the way the club takes a lead off first, they watch how he swings at the ball. They watch how Mathewson and Johnson wind up, how they throw and how they meet every crisis that the big games present.

Everything considered, the sand-lot ball player of the big cities is a more finished article than his brother in the small town. Yet, the big league scouts pass him by. Rarely do city boys get a chance to break into the big leagues. There's that strange prejudice against them.

Look over the rosters of the big leagues and you will find that out of every 100 players about 90 per cent are products of the small towns. Only 10 per cent graduated from the cities. Look over the list of recruits each year and you will find that 90 per cent of them are graduates from small towns and that only 10 per cent are products of the big cities.

Small Town Men Get Chance.

The city chaps who finally work their way into the big leagues have made a better showing, in ratio to the numbers than have the small town players. Of course, the biggest portion of the stars are from the small towns, but why shouldn't that be the case? Ten small town players get a chance for every one city player.

If the big league scouts devoted their energies for one year to looking over the talent that is placed on exhibition in the city sand lots they would bring to the fore a greater number of real ball players each year than they do now. In every city where semipro and amateur baseball flourishes there are scores of ball players good enough to hold down regular jobs in Class A, and even Class AA league teams and who with one year's experience in the minors would be ripe for the majors.

Big Stars Came From Villages.

Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Joe Jackson, Walter Johnson, Walter Marandville, Johnny Evers, Christy Mathewson and others came from the small towns, but it is a 100-to-1 shot that if those fellows originally lived in a big town and got their baseball training there, that they never would have been given a second thought by the scouts, no matter how highly they were touted. But they lived in small towns and that was sufficient recommendation.

Some of these days the scouts may awaken to the fact that there are some real ball players on the sand lots of the cities; when they do they will go to the cities and they'll gather in one week's time more promising big league material than they can gather in a year by chasing around through the rural sections. And when that thing comes to pass it will be safe wager that at least 90 per cent of the recruits gathered in the cities will stick in the big leagues.

The "sticking around" average for the recruits gathered in the small towns is about one-half of 1 per cent or less.

I stood outside a boxing show and heard the footers-rour.

How was the wind-up fight?" said I to one when it was over.

"The wind-up fight," he said to me, "it was an awful bore."

Then why," said I, "that gladsome cry, that loud and mighty shout I thought a champ was wallowed on the jaw and counted out."

"That shout," said he, "was over a preliminary bout."

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUERS TO HAVE 'EMERGENCY FUND'

Each Club to Put Up $10,000 to Guarantee Followers That League Will Complete Its Season

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—In order to guarantee the followers of International league baseball that the league will go through the 1915 season regardless of what happens, each club in the league will be compelled to deposit $10,000 with President Barrow at a special meeting to be held January 10. It was announced tonight. The $80,000 collected in this way will be used as an "emergency fund," which will be used to bolster up any weak spots which may develop.

"Eager Heart," a Christmas mystery play, was most effectively presented by the Dramatic club of Colorado college at Crowswell theater Friday evening. Though the play had been previously presented, in staging, costuming and music it is considered to have surpassed all its former productions at its latest appearance.

For the unmitigated success of the performance, much credit is due Miss Bernardine Strawn, who managed the play; Miss Dorothy Waples, in charge of the costuming; Mrs. Roger H. Motton, director of the Dramatic club; Dean Hale, who composed the music; and his assistants, the Misses Wagon, Merrick, Hamilton, Hitter and Barnett.

Satisfactory results are also due in no small part to the efforts of the committee on arrangements, consisting of the Misses Waples, White, Wagon, Durlin and Erickson. Miss Ruth Kelsey, president of the club, may well be proud of the histrionic abilities of her subjects.

Of the scenes staged, one took place in Eager Heart's house, one on a starling plain and the third on a familiar street. The cast of characters was as follows:

Tableaux for Belgian Relief.

Wednesday evening, Jan. 6, has been set for the presentation of the tableaux for the Belgian relief fund, and the opera house has been chosen as the place for bringing them before the public to best effect. Their subjects will not be made known in advance, but the young women selected for the interpretation of the tableaux may be counted upon to make the most of their portrayal under the direction of Mr. Henry Cobb Nickerson.

Mr. Nickerson has had experience in superintending such performances, as he was in joint management with his former associate, Mr. George E. Barton, of the tableaux shown here three years ago. At that time the proceeds of the play were devoted to the Boy's club, and lovers of the artistic will remember the taste with which they were staged.

Participants in the tableaux met Saturday afternoon in the apartment of Mrs. James T. Anderson at the Antlers and discussed with Mr. Nickerson the details of the proposed affair. The personnel, however, is not yet fully arranged.

From the generosity with which philanthropic Colorado Springs citizens have responded to previous calls for assistance to the harassed Belgians, it is believed that they will be equally liberal in contributing toward the city's first charity to make the form of actual financial relief.

Why Artists Leave Home

"You don't tell how any artist leaves home," said a man standing on a hillside in the distance, looking back at the city of New York. "I don't know how to tell you, but I know how to tell you that truth when he said it, he was not without home in his own country."

Alexis Jean Fournier, painter of East Aurora, N. Y., said the same thing. He said that he had been in the city of New York for many years, but he had never left home. He said that he had been in the city of New York for many years, but he had never left home.

Perhaps there is a way of it with artists, who are so often in the city of New York. They are so often in the city of New York, but they are never in the city of New York. They are so often in the city of New York, but they are never in the city of New York.

William Morris, painter of New York, said the same thing. He said that he had been in the city of New York for many years, but he had never left home. He said that he had been in the city of New York for many years, but he had never left home.

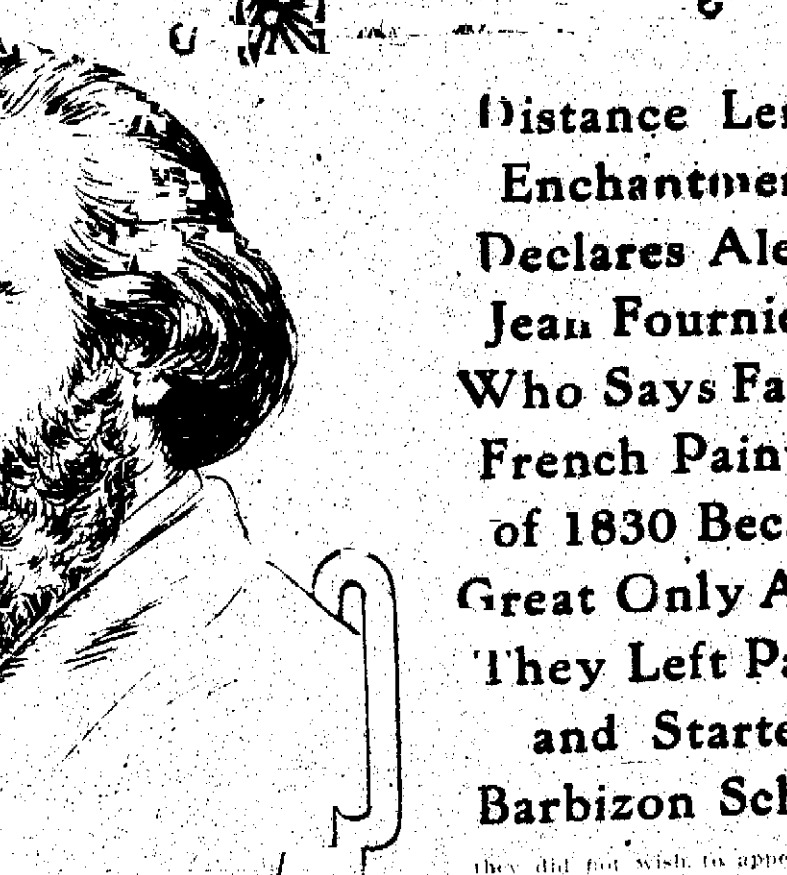

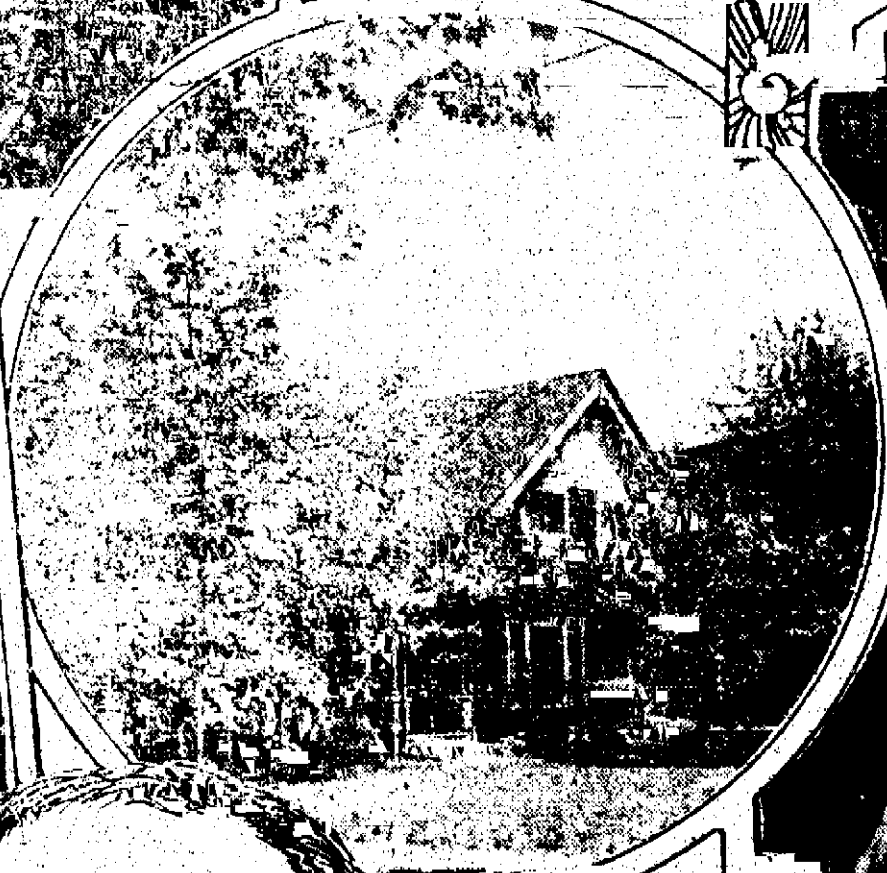

The artist, who is so often in the city of New York, is so often in the city of New York, but he is never in the city of New York. He is so often in the city of New York, but he is never in the city of New York.

The artist, who is so often in the city of New York, is so often in the city of New York, but he is never in the city of New York. He is so often in the city of New York, but he is never in the city of New York.

When the artist is so often in the city of New York, he is so often in the city of New York, but he is never in the city of New York. He is so often in the city of New York, but he is never in the city of New York.

When the artist is so often in the city of New York, he is so often in the city of New York, but he is never in the city of New York. He is so often in the city of New York, but he is never in the city of New York.

They did not wish to appear in the city of New York. They did not wish to appear in the city of New York. They did not wish to appear in the city of New York.

A long tail. The artist, who is so often in the city of New York, is so often in the city of New York, but he is never in the city of New York.

THE PEOPLE WHO MOVED THE OCEAN

Belgium and Holland
Greatly Increased
Their Boundaries by Moving Back the Sea and Making Room for Homes for Millions of People

At the early spring tides the dikes began to give way. The tide was at its greatest height because the sun and moon were in opposition, and pulling the tide at the same time.

QUEEN GOES AMONG PEOPLE TO AID SUFFERERS.

Queen Wilhelmina went out among the people at the time of this disaster and aided the sufferers somewhat by the royalty of Holland and Prussia have been greater than their people than the royalty of any other land. They have always been quick to aid the distressed and the flood was a afflicted Holland and more than Belgium gave the Queen her opportunity to show her sympathy with her people.

The land which had been inundated was desolate. To see the devastation was frequently to remain the upper land after an inundation because the sand and salt from the sea was washed inward and covered the higher soil. Much of the rich soil is washed away by the swift action of the sea. Even the trees were seriously harmed by the intrusions of the sea.

When the dikes gave way the people in some of the cities fled to the tops of the dikes. But the flood was so terrific and lasted so long that many of them nearly died of exposure to the weather and from hunger before they were finally rescued by boats.

In one of the villages the people had been warned by telephone and telegraph of the coming inundation. They fled to the high dikes next to the sea digging their cattle and goats with them. Once on the dikes they thought they would be safe but water they were packed up on the water was drained they were found in groups dead.

Many of the trees planted has been used to hold the dikes in place. From earliest times the engineers who constructed the dikes planted on each side with trees. In many places these were linden trees with their broad leaves they made excellent shade. The tops of the dikes have been utilized as highways. Along the sides of the dikes children play and parts of the dikes are sowed to grass for goat pastures.

In recent years dikes of concrete have been built to replace the earthen dikes. These concrete structures are anchored below to the bed of the sea are of vastly greater protection from the sea than the earthen dikes. They will resist the wearing action of the sea longer.

The sea walls have been the source of great inspiration to many famous Dutch painters. The Dutch people with their white homesteads and wooden boats are well known features of our art galleries.

There are myths told in Holland that some time their entire land will be raised above the level of the sea and the dikes will then be nothing but a memory. Prior to 1913 the land was higher than it now is. At that time the Zuider Zee, the great inland gulf of Holland, sank. The Zuider Zee was covered formerly with a great forest. The trees are still to be found on the floor of the Zuider Zee just as they were hundreds of years ago. The legends tell that a promise was made that the sea would restore the Zuider Zee to the land again.

Invaders driven from land by opening dikes

While the film itself does as much good as it can, it is not the best of the best. The story is a little bit over the top, and the acting is a bit over the top. But it is a good movie.

Every few years there is an influx out west in the dikes. They are undisturbed by the constant drawing of the tides. The stories of the "king of the dikes" are passed from father to son and is still told on the Dutch seashores. The time was long ago, that the people of the book on the stories is

[illegible]

There are two things that have been taking place here, we all know. On the one hand, the steady and increasing growth of the Church, and on the other, the increasing spiritual aspirations of the Church. In a short, though, we are proud it has fought to a standstill of the greatest kind. And it has done it in the most noble and self-sacrificing manner. And it has done it almost single-handed.

If we let the Church line up against war and industrial exploitation as it has lined up against the liquor traffic we shall date a new era. The Church is slow. It surely is, but remember in fairness that the church is not a naked club of a few radicals, but a cross-section of the whole nation. It is slow because it includes the conservative forces. The man in a hurry does

movement makes a change in a century. I am not at all in a hurry about the churches. It has taken about twenty years to elect the churches up to their present condition. In the liquor question
I am now some denomination is taken arm. Only in recent years we learned how to meet the problem in politics.

It has taken all the time since the civil war to make the leaders of the church who are that our representatives stem all eat up the nation. If it is allowed to obey its own desires. The churches have always been for peace in theory. Perhaps this war at war will consolidate their position to the point of action,
I think this is slow progress.
It is! Can you show any equal body of people that has moved faster?
Following the morality of a nation

First, friendship for those who

those who do not tend co-operation among the nations on a basis of Christianity and mutual respect and, a sincere and scientific perception of the social causes and misery
Fourth, an undying determination to get the will of God realized in the organized life of every community, and to see the life of Christ appear in every man and woman and not go out of the Church unless they put you out Jesus did not come to have it in you to help the world go on, but to help the world go forward, be patient and wait.
It moves and the Church must move. But it is not the Church that moves
the nation moves"

"The greatest friend of truth is the greatest enemy of error."
— Colton.
